3
4 THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Good morning. We are now on
5 the video record at 9:07 a.m., on January 17th, 2022.
6 This begins Media 1 in the remote video deposition of 7 John David Hansen, taken in the matter of MabVax
8 Therapeutics Holdings, Incorporated, versus Barry Honig,
9 et al. This case is filed in the Superior Court of the 10 State of California, in the County of San Diego.

11 This deposition is being held via Zoom video
12 conferencing. My name is Jordan Bruce, and I'm the 13 videographer. And the court reporter is Michelle
14 Bailey, both on behalf of Veritext.

15 Please note that all appearances will be noted
16 on the stenographic record.

17 And now would the court reporter please swear
18 in the witness.

19
20 JOHN DAVID HANSEN,
21 having first been duly sworn
22 by the reporter, was examined
23 and testified as follows:

24
25 ///

1 primarily, with one of the principals of Objective
2 Capital, David Crean, to contact and to follow up with
3 all the folks that we had started to have engagement
4 with. So the BioNTech opportunity sort of came out of 5 the blue from -- actually, from Green Hill.

6 BY MR. WEBER:

7 Q. Okay.

8 And when was that conference in San Francisco?
9 The one in January of 2019?

10 A. Yeah. It was in the first full week of January
11 of every year.

12 Q. Okay.

13 Who did you meet from BioNTech at that meeting?

14 A. I primarily met with Dr. Ugur Sahin. Dr. Sahin
15 is the CEO, founder of BioNTech. And his chief
16 operating officer, chief commercial officer, whose name
17 right this minute escapes me, but he was in the 18 executive committee. And I met with the two of them
19 only.

20 Q. Okay.

21 I'll follow-up about that a little bit later.
22 I'm going to switch gears right now.

23 Going back to something that we spoke about 24 early this morning. During 2018, MabVax was conducting
25 its phase 1 study in which it was combining its 5B1

1 antibody with the chemotherapy drug and -- what was the
2 name of the chemotherapy drug again? Paclitaxel,
3 something like that?

4 A. You can use the word "GemNab" as your
5 abbreviation.

6 Q. GemNab. Okay. That's easy.

7 Was MabVax -- during 2018, was MabVax doing any 8 other clinical studies besides that one? Were there any 9 other studies going?

10 A. 2017, I believe that we had dosed one or more
11 patients in the radioimmunotherapy trial, and I believe 12 that there was still some work that was being done in 13 the imaging trial. But the bulk of our effort was the 14 phase 1B trial, which was the antibody with the 15 chemotherapy.

16 Q. Phase 1B. That's right. You said that this 17 morning.

18 During that phase 1B trial -- well, let me ask
19 you this.

20 How many patients were involved in the phase
21 1B?

22 A. I wish I -- off the top of my head, I don't 23 remember exactly. But it was in the high teens to early 24 20s or so.

25 Q. Okay.

1 And was that study being led by a doctor at 2 MSK?

3 A. The principal investigator was Dr. Eileen
4 O'Reilly, who was the head of the pancreatic cancer
5 treatment program at MSK. But there were three other
6 investigators as well from Sericanan (phonetic), two
7 sites in Sericanan, one in Arizona and one in Florida.
8 And HonorHealth in Arizona.

9 Q. How did patients get enrolled in that study?
10 What was the process by which patients were enrolled?

11 A. So any time you start a clinical trial, you
12 have to have an extensive and documented protocol. The 13 protocol has to be approved by the -- each of the sites'
14 medical and scientific review committee. And then once
15 that's done, there is a green light given that the 16 investigator can enroll patients.

17 So the patient has to meet a fairly strict
18 criteria as to whether they're eligible to be enrolled
19 or not. And then usually there's a workup period where 20 the patient is evaluated as to whether they meet all the 21 criteria. We lose a lot of patients during the workup
22 period because the disease moves so quickly that when 23 they first talk to the patient about entering the trial,
24 things change. But, nonetheless, we were able to slowly
25 enroll patients into the trial at all sites.

1 Q. And what -- so one of the sites was MSK -- I'm
2 sorry. One you said was in Phoenix?

3 A. Well, there was HonorHealth in Scottsdale,
4 Arizona. There was Sericanan in Nashville, Tennessee,
5 and another Sericanan site in Florida.

6 Q. And so if -- again, forgive me for using the 7 laymen's description of this. But if a doctor at one of 8 those sites had a patient in which the doctor thought
9 was a candidate for this trial by meeting the various 10 criteria and protocol, what would happen, just 11 procedurally? Would that doctor talk to the lead
12 investigator? Or how did somebody get involved?

13 A. Well, we had a medical monitor, external
14 medical monitor. And -- so the patient's particulars
15 were forwarded over to the medical monitor. And if the 16 medical monitor and the onsite investigator agreed that 17 the patient met the criteria, then the patient could be 18 enrolled at the investigator's discretion.

19 Q. Who was the medical monitor for this phase 1B
20 site?

21 A. John Gutheil.

22 Q. How do you spell that last name?

23 A. G-u-i-t-i-l-e [sic], I believe.

24 Q. And where was John Gutheil located?

25 A. He ran a small boutique clinical research

1 organization in San Diego that we were utilizing. They
2 specialized in oncology studies.

3 Q. He's in San Diego.

4 A. Yes.

5 Q. So -- now a patient is enrolled in this phase
6 1B trial, how often were each patient monitored? Did
7 they go for regular checkups? What happened? I guess
8 this would be part of the protocol; right?

9 A. That's exactly right. So they're monitored at 10 least in person monthly and probably by telephone
11 weekly. And then there's a complete workup that is done
12 at the end of every second month of therapy. And the 13 patience is then, has a full scan, X-rays, contrast --
14 CT scan, to look for what's happening with the disease 15 and whether tumors are growing or not growing or 16 shrinking. And there's a whole -- again, part of the 17 protocol is how to measure that and validate it. So
18 that's what's been done.

19 Q. I understand.

20 And was all that information collected and sent 21 to somebody at MabVax to keep track of, or was it the 22 lead investigator, Dr. Eileen O'Reilly, who was keeping 23 track of --

24 A. No. Actually, it all goes to the clinical 25 trial organization that we had contracted to receive all

1 that information and keep track of it. Certainly each
2 of the sites kept track of their own patients. But,
3 centrally, all that information was centralized in the 4 clinical trial organization, which is called SciQuus.

5 Q. And how do you spell SciQuus?

6 A. S-c-i-q-u-u-s.

7 Q. I'm sorry. S-c-i-q-u --

8 A. -- u-s. There's two u's.

9 Q. Oh. Okay.

10 Where is SciQuus located?

11 A. That's San Diego. That's where John Gutheil
12 is.

13 Q. Oh. Okay. So -- got it.

14 At some point in 2018, there were adverse
15 events that occurred; correct?

16 A. Actually, there were adverse events in 2017.
17 So the history of that clinical trial is of the first
18 three patients enrolled in the trial, two had developed
19 something called pneumonitis, which is an inflammation
20 of the lungs. It was evaluated at that time. There
21 was, as always, a meeting of the investigators along
22 with the medical monitor to review the data.

23 The conclusion of the investigators was that 24 pneumonitis is -- while not common, does occur quite 25 frequently with, you know, therapies. And since we

1 haven't seen pneumonitis in our antibody-only trial, the 2 decision was to continue to move forward with the trial.

3 Q. You were going to continue?

4 A. No. Go ahead.

5 Q. Okay.

6 So those two patients presented to pneumonitis
7 in 2017?

8 A. Yeah. They were right at the beginning of that 9 trial.

10 Q. Okay.

11 When was the beginning of the trial, if you can 12 recall?

13 A. I don't remember exactly. But that would be -- 14 since we didn't complete the phase 1A portion of the 15 trial until late 2016, I can only be thinking that it
16 started sometime in the first quarter of 2017 when we 17 established a dose for that trial.

18 Q. Were there other adverse events that arose
19 after the pneumonitis adverse events?

20 A. Yes. There was one more in early '18, which 21 brought together all of the investigators and the 22 medical monitor once again to evaluate that. And,
23 again, the medical monitors and the clinicians decided 24 to continue the trial.

25 Q. What was that event in 2018?

1 A. Again, pneumonitis.

2 Q. So this was a third patient that had suffered
3 the same condition?

4 A. Yes.

5 Q. When you say the investigators came together to 6 discuss -- let's see what you said.

7 "Brought together all of the investigators and 8 medical monitor to evaluate that."

9 How were they brought together? Did they meet
10 in person? Was it a teleconference? This is the era
11 before Zoom, believe it or not. That existed. So what 12 happened?

13 A. Well, there's ongoing usually weekly or 14 biweekly meetings with the investigators. And most of 15 the time it's to review the current patients that are on 16 treatment, to look at the number of patients who may be 17 eligible to be enrolled. There's always some additional 18 information that either the clinical research
19 organization puts together or MabVax put together to 20 provide further background and then to give the 21 investigators some analysis for some of the things that 22 they see, that -- that we all saw in clinical trial.

23 So in this particular case, after the first two 24 patients had pneumonitis, there was a whole -- several 25 cohorts of patients who did not develop any kinds of

1 pneumonitis or other situation but did have dramatically
2 positive results from the combination trial. And by
3 that I mean that in the naked antibody trial, we were 4 seeing patients who had stable disease, meaning that we
5 could document that the tumors were not growing.

6 In the combination trial, we were able to 7 document that patients had tumor or tumor load that was 8 shrinking by sometimes 75 percent or 50 percent. So we 9 had significant responses to the combined therapy. And 10 that was highly encouraging to the investigators, which 11 was the reason why when the third pneumonitis case came 12 up in early 2018, they evaluated all of the information
13 that was available and decided that, based on the 14 positive information that was being generated of the 15 trial, they wanted to continue.

16 Q. Okay.

17 After the third occurrence of pneumonitis, were
18 there other adverse events that arose during the phase
19 1B study?

20 A. The answer is primarily no, meaning that no
21 serious or adverse events arose while we continued to 22 enroll patients. The last and final patient encountered
23 pneumonitis in August of 2018, which precipitated,
24 again, yet another meeting with the investigators and 25 with medical monitor.

1 And it is at that time that all of the
2 investigators wanted us to, meaning MabVax, to suspend
3 the trial and begin work on using an alternative --
4 instead of chemotherapy -- to be combined with the 5 antibodies. They were very encouraged by the results
6 that were seen. But pneumonitis is serious enough that 7 you want to be very careful about entering into a
8 treatment regimen that may precipitate it.

9 Q. So there was fourth patient who experienced
10 pneumonitis? Is that what you said?

11 A. Yes, in August of 2018.

12 Q. And how was that brought to your attention,
13 you, David Hansen?

14 A. Well, since I was on all the telephone calls
15 and we received all of the -- any time there's a what 16 you would call a serious interaction or event, all of 17 that is immediately faxed into the company. And the 18 company is obligated to report that to the regulatory 19 agencies as a matter of record.

20 Q. So did the company, MabVax, send that 21 information to the regulator following the first three 22 instances of the patient suffering pneumonitis?

23 A. Yeah. Any time there's what's called a serious
24 adverse reaction, you're obligated to send that 25 information in. That's the standard operating

1 procedure, especially in an early stage clinical trial.

2 Q. So when you say "the regulator," that's the
3 Food and Drug Administration in this case?

4 A. Yeah. Yes, it is.

5 Q. Okay.

6 Okay. I can move on.

7 MR. WEBER: Sorry. I just messed up my screen
8 big time. Hold on. Don't worry about that.

9 Okay. I've marked as Exhibit 21 the second
10 amended complaint in this case.

11 (Exhibit 21 marked)

12 BY MR. WEBER:

13 Q. Have you ever read it?

14 A. Is that a question you were directing at me?

15 Q. Yes, sir.

16 A. Okay.

17 MR. SHAPIRO: Asked and answered.

18 BY MR. WEBER:

19 Q. What's your answer?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. Thank you.

22 There is a -- and I'm not necessarily going to 23 direct you to any particular paragraph of this unless 24 you need me to to refresh your recollection on 25 something. There is a reference in the complaint to an
